The lecture in the Baptist church on Friday evening was not as well attended as the merits of the speaker, Mr. Grant, deserved. The lecture "An Innocent Abroad" was delivered by him in a particularly clever and pleasing manner.

COURT Clyde, A. O. F., of South Edmonton, invited their brethren of Court Beaver House, Edmonton, to a fraternal "at home" in Parish hall on Friday night. A musical programme and an elaborate supper had been prepared, and the evening was passed most pleasantly. Court Beaver House have invited their south side brethren to a return "at home" on Tuesday evening.

The Edmonton golf club is jubilant over the receipt of a letter from Commissioner Chipman of the Hudson's Bay company. The commissioner has, very generously and kindly made the club tenants at will of the "Big House." This was formerly the residence of the Chief Factor in charge of the district. It has historic importance, and, perhaps more to the purpose, will furnish the club with most convenient quarters. The proposal is to convert several rooms to club uses, one as a general club room, one for ladies and one for men. The lack, last season, of this sort of accommodation was a check on the game. It has now all things in its favor—every necessary convenience, grounds as picturesque as any probably on the continent, and a membership whose enthusiasm is likely to develop talent of no mean order.

TENDERS are being called for the erection of a bridge over the Sturgeon river on correction line road allowance, north of section 30, 24, 25.

REV. ALEX. GRANT, of Winnipeg, preached in the South Edmonton Baptist church yesterday morning, in the afternoon at Rabbit Hills, in the evening at the Baptist chapel here which was filled to its utmost capacity with a deeply interested congregation. This ferry, when arrangements are finally concluded, will be run on the basis of a free ferry, that is charge will be made which will be merely nominal, and sufficient to pay the cost of operation only. Mr. Ross and the local M. L. A's, drove out to St. Albert to-day on a non-official tour of inspection.

T. W. LINES, late leader of All Saints' choir, was presented on Saturday night with a beautiful gold headed cane, by the members of the choir at a meeting held at the residence of D. W. Macdonald. Mr. Harrison in presenting the cane, stated, on behalf of the choir, the regret that they all felt at his resignation and thanked him for the interest he had always taken in the church and choir. Mr. Lines when replying, in a few well chosen words, thanked them for their kindness and also for the very tangible token they had given him of their friendship and good will.

SUPREME COURT.

Allan vs. Clark. This case, referred to last issue, was concluded on Friday morning; judgment reserved.

Regina vs. Calvert. This is an appeal from the decision of the J. P. in an action for assault, on information laid by Const. Brown of the N. W. M. P. The facts appear to be that after a hockey match played last winter at Fort Saskatchewan, some of the mounted police and one H. Calvert and some of his friends, while refreshing themselves in the Mansion house, got into an animated altercation, which, with lightning like rapidity developed into an exhibition of pugilistic ability, commonly called a "scrap." During the exchange of compliments which speedily passed, some of the participants had their countenances unavoidably "hand painted!" Const. Brown in particular, his proboscis being completely wrecked. The result was that he laid an information against H. Calvert, for assault, and brought his story and his damaged physiognomy into the police court, with the result that Calvert was found guilty. From this decision Calvert appealed and the appeal came before his Honor on Friday.

After listening to a great deal of contradictory evidence, giving the story of the "scrap" in all its gruesome details, Mr. Justice Scott quashed the conviction of the J. P. and ordered that each party pay their own costs. Beck Q. C. for complainant (respondent) and J. C. F. Bown, for respondent (appellant).

Laque et al. vs. Morin et al. An action on account, defendants' advocate withdrew from the case, and on plaintiff proving account, judgment was entered against defendants for $286.65, and costs.

Kingdon v. Wyld. An action for wages. Judgment for plaintiff for $134.50 and costs. S. S. Taylor, Q. C., for plaintiff; P. L. McNamara for defendant.

Poplar Lake Threshing Co. v. Hall & Cunliffe. This is an action for rent of a steam engine, rented by the Threshing Co. to Hall & Cunliffe. This case is in progress as we go to press. W. Short for plaintiffs. E. G. Emery for defendant, Cunliffe; J. C. F. Bown for defendant Hall.

PLEA AGAINST POISON.

Nine out of every ten of the legiti-mate fur traders and trappers, who come in from the north with their fur, have serious and well founded complaints to make against the pernicious practice which some third rate hunters have, of recklessly scattering poison, principally strychnine concealed in lumps of grease, for the purpose of killing wolves and foxes and other fur bearing animals of the north, whose pelts are more or less valuable. It is an evil practice which the white hunter introduced when civilization brought the material to his hand and every year the practice is growing and the damage increasing accordingly. For as the fur trade becomes a greater industry every class of adventurer and fortune seeker turns northward to try his hand at trapping, and endeavors to make a living out of that which by the very means he employs he is surely destroying. A great portion of the evil is wrought by men who know nothing of trapping, who are new at the business, hold traps in great contempt, and consider a bottle of strychnine as their most important piece of stock in trade. The result is as might be expected, they put out the poison, and it is safe to say that not half that is put out is ever heard of again, the animals who get it, can crawl away and die, and that is generally the end, though sometimes, unfortunately, the end is not yet, as proven by the story told by a trapper who came in from the northeast over a month ago. In speaking of the evil effects brought about by putting out poison bait, he told of an incident which had come under his personal notice. In the early spring when travelling over the prairie he came across the carcass of a wolf partly devoured, and dead beside him was another wolf and a fox. The deduction was plain, the wolf had picked up poison bait and wandered away and been lost, and the others coming along, first one had started to devour the carcass and been in turn poisoned by some of the strychnine which had remained in the stomach of the wolf, and the other had endeavored to do the same and suffered a similar fate.
There are other numerous incidents of the same kind and an Indian told shortly afterwards of seeing a similar circumstance. Another man, who acknowledged that in his green days he had used poison told of an incident when, on going out to see his bait, he found it gone and on investigating found near by the body of a small bird. Out of curiosity he opened the crop and found inside the greater portion of his poison bait. Again, a trapper who came in only last week from the far north with his dog teams stated that in many places along the trail these "poison hunters," had scattered their bait, placing it right in the travelled track—as wolves and foxes frequently run along the trails and follow them for long distances—with the result that a number of times he caught his dogs just in time to prevent them from picking up the poisoned grease. Such a practice is not only careless, it is criminal, for the man who has his dogs poisoned and is left "afloat" four hundred miles from "nowhere," is in a decidedly disagreeable position, besides losing his dogs which are in this country considerably more valuable than horses.

Like all other evils, the evil is more apparent than the means of remedy, and just what means should be resorted to, to prevent this wholesale poisoning and reckless distribution of these deadly drugs, it is difficult to say.
For the fact remain that the practice will go on and the damage increase, and the fur supply diminish, until some practicable solution of the difficulty is arrived at, or until a stringent law is passed, positively prohibiting the sale of any poison, suitable for trapping purposes, to any person, except in a few exceptional cases to be specified.

WIDTH OF THE CROW'S NEST PASS.

Vancouver World, of the 23rd, says: Numerous contradictory statements have appeared regarding the width of the Crow's Nest Pass, some asserting that the pass is so contracted that there is no room for more than one railway bed, while others state that there is room for half a dozen. As good an authority on the subject as can be obtained is W. T.
Jennings, C. E., of Toronto, who has gone over the route from Fort Mac-Leod to the East Kootenay four times in all, and has walked over the pass and ridden and driven through it. His last visit was in the autumn of 1893, when he was there in the interests of the British Columbia Southern railway. To a Globe reporter recently, Mr. Jennings showed a plat-er cast of the pass and the adjacent mountain district, which he is making, and traced the course of the pass across the mountains. Up the Crow's Nest Creek the pass, though contracted, is not unduly narrow, and the gradients are easy, much easier in fact than those of the C. P. R. track at present used. All that would be necessary would be for the government to exercise supervision to see that the line is so located as not to block the way of any future lines. At the Crow's Nest Lake the main difficulty occurs. The C. P. R. had at the time of Mr. Jennings' visit graded the pass up to this point and had made a commencement at a rock cutting in the steep bank of the lake.
The line laid out by the C. P. R. is located along the north side of the lake, at the foot of minor mountains forming the spurs of Crow's Nest Mountains; these are very steep on the lake side. Another line to run along that side of the lake would have either to widen the cutting thus started by the C. P. R. or to get running powers over the rails. The southern side of the lake is of much the same nature as the northern, and a similar cutting might be made along it. A bay of the lake at the western end trends south, and the southern banks of this bay are more precipitous than the banks elsewhere. If this bay should not prove too steep it could be bridged; in this case the southern bank would be just as practicable as the northern. From Crow's Nest Lake to Summit Lake is a rise of about 20 feet. Either shore of Summit Lake affords an equally good location for a line. Summit Lake marks the apex of the pass. The descent of the Michel Creek and Elk River valleys is easy, and the same remarks applies to them; that with proper care there is room for several lines. On leaving Summit Lake the line descends into Michel Creek valley, and finds in front of it the immense horn-shaped mountain—or rather a timber-clad hill—the tip of the curving horn lying to the north and Michel Creek running along its southeast side to empty at the apex of the ridge into the Elk river, which passes along its northwest base. This timbered, hilly ridge contains the great coal beds, and the line of the C. P. R. is accordingly laid on the left bank of the Elk river, next to this hill. Down the Elk river both sides are practicable for railway construction, the side selected being perhaps the easier; it is certainly the most suitable, as it skirts the mountain side containing the principal body of coal. Well down the Elk at Elk River bridge the line diverges from the river to the northward and descends along the gentle slope of the East Kootenay, which it is likely will be crossed a few miles south of Fort Steele. From the foregoing it is apparent that no engineering difficulties occur on the route to the point described, and that the cost will not be excessive.

LAURIER'S POLICY.

The London Mail's representative, while in Canada interviewed Mr.
Laurier, and sends the following report of his interview to his paper.

The premier said: "I am charged with being an anti-Imperialist, a commercial unionist, an annexationist even. They have not taken the trouble heretofore to ask me point blank what I am, and what my policy in that respect is. I am a Britisher, my policy is British. It is true I am seeking to cultivate better trade relations with the United States, because I believe that at present for the vast volume of our perishable products, it is our nearest and most natural market. As time goes on, with improved conditions, we may afford, having built up an imperial trade, to become independent of our neighbors. It is laid down as a general proposition that trade follows the flag. I believe in this dictum, but I should suggest an amendment. It should be that trade follows the British flag. The trade lines of the Empire will ultimately be political lines. England must take Canada and her other colonies into regular partnership, with proportionate control and responsibility in respect to Imperial affairs. Were I 25 instead of 50, I confidently believe I should some day sit in Westminster as one of the representatives of the Dominion. As an imperial sovereign on the system of preferential trade between Canada and the mother country, that is a matter whose aspect is undergoing an incessant change. Certain things are happening which may shed new light upon it and make it nearer and more feasible. The proposal is to tax everything that enters a Canadian port that has not come from British or colonial ports. This would mean immense prosperity for our staple industries, but is the time ripe for this?

We want more people and think the gold boom will help immigration."

Winnipeg Free Press: Talbot Clifton and A. Clifton, who arrived here from England a couple of days ago on a hunting expedition, left yesterday for the north. The Barren Lands is their destination, and they will spend the summer studying the movements of the musk ox and other large wild animals.
They will first go to Cumberland house, on the Saskatchewan, where they will remain until the rivers open, and then proceed by canoe to the Barren Lands.
They were accompanied to Selkirk by Mr. Clark, of the Hudson's Bay Company. These gentlemen are relatives of the Duke of Bedford.

KOOTENAY-ALBERTA.

The Toronto World says: "Both from Edmonton and Calgary the reports show that the ranching and farming communities of Alberta are beginning to feel the genial effects of the wave of prosperity which is passing over Kootenay. Both farmers and ranchers, says The Revelstoke, B. C., Herald, may be assured that this is only the beginning of things. It is impossible to over-estimate the value of the market which they will have in this country in the next two or three years. The establishment of cold storage warehouses at Revelstoke will be a big move in the right direction and will prove a permanent link in the connection between Alberta and Kootenay. The situation of Revelstoke renders it peculiarly adapted for the establishment of such a cold storage warehouse, which will act not only as a distributing agency, but as an information bureau on the state of the local market for the benefit of Alberta producers and buyers. Such an institution cannot fail to be of the greatest benefit both to Alberta and Kootenay."

GENERAL NEWS.

Commercial: A $50,000 brewery has been completed at Price Albert, by two wealthy German brewers.

Glencoe Transcript: Wm. Donnelly, one of the survivors of the famous Biddulph tragedy, died lately at Appin, at the age of 52. He escaped by reason of his brother being mistaken and shot for him.

Daily Mail: President Kruger has stated his claim in respect of the Jamestown raid at last. Material damage, £677,958 3s. 3d. (The three Boers killed, we suppose, is for the three Boers killed.) Moral and intellectual damage, £322,041 16s. 9d.; total, £1,000,000. We should like to ask what 16s. 9d. worth of moral and intellectual damage consists in. Apart from that it is shocking to think that the moral and intellect of the Transvaal are all this amount worse than they were fifteen months ago. Yet it amounts for a good deal. But if as Mr. Chamberlain suspects, the message means that these have deteriorated to the extent of a whole million—why, then, the Transvaal seems to have gone so far in immorality and softening of the brain that it hardly seems worth indemnifying.

Winnipeg Free Press: "Bishop Labreque of Chicoutimi, who forbade his flock reading such newspapers as Le Soleil, Cultivateur, la Patrie and other liberal newspapers, has been presented with an address signed by the priests of his diocese complimenting him on the vigorous stand he has taken on the Manitoba school question and against the bad newspapers which are already so numerous in Canada. "It is evident," says the address, "that energetic action is necessary to strengthen the hands of those who are well inclined and to group all sincere Catholics around their ecclesiastical leader. We thoroughly comprehend the consequences of the battle in which we shall be long engaged and we recognize it demands there shall be most perfect union between the chief and those who follow him. It is for this reason, we would by means of the present address assure your Lordship of our perfect unanimity of ideas on this subject both in words and actions."

Le Monde, of Quebec, has the following article defending the Catholic clergy from the criticisms with which they were assailed for their connection with the late elections. "A Protestant preacher, to whatever sect he may belong, can pronounce from the pulpit the most incendiary political speeches, can rashly discuss the most burning question, can foment the most dangerous religious quarrels. No one is alarmed. Liberty runs no danger. The most exalted among the fanatics can cry at the top of their voices that it is necessary to reconquer Quebec and crush once for all the French race in Canada. There is nothing wrong about that, and there is nothing seditious in such a proposal. But let a Catholic bishop ask a candidate to promise to have the constitution of the country respected. Halloo, halloo! Such an attempt on the civil liberty of a British citizen is intolerable! Exile or prison! If Canada is to-day an English possession it is not due to your redcoats or your muskets; it is due to the black or violet soutane which you abhor, or to the pectoral cross, which you hate so much. Too long have these crosses and these soutanes been fighting for you, teaching respect to the constitution, fidelity to the crown, submission to just laws, attachment to the country. Such intervention is intolerable! Quick, a federal law! Let us put an end to it at once and for all! Exile or prison!"

CURLING.

The curling match at the rink, on Thursday evening, Canada vs. the Old Country, represented by two rinks each, resulted in the mother country chastising her aspiring offspring by a score of 21 to 23.

The respective rinks were made up as follows:

CANADA. OLD COUNTRY.
Ibbotson, T. G. Lauder, Emery, De Roux,
McCauley, Jackson,
J. H. Ross—6. McKenzie—14.
Raymer, McDonald,
McNicol, McKay,
Ormsby, McNeil,
Larue—15. Jas. Lauder—9.

The final single for the silver cup presented by A. Macdonald & Co. was played between Alex. Taylor and W. G. Ibbotson, and after an interesting game, the former won by a score of 12 to 10. The cup now becomes the permanent property of Mr. Taylor, he having won it for three successive years.

A match was played on Friday night between "The N. W. Legislative Assembly" and "The Curling Club" which terminated in the defeat of the politicians by a score of 13 to 9.

The following were the rinks: CLUB. N. W. L. A.
Chalmers, J. H. Ross,
Picard, H. C. Wilson,
Ibbotson, M. McCauley,
F. Ross—13. F. F. Tims—9.

The weekly match for the vice-president's buttons was played on Saturday and resulted as follows:

K. W. MacKenzie, gold button, 26
Jas. Lauder, sr., silver button, 23 A. H. Goodwin, bronze button, 20

THE POLICE PATROL.

Official despatches from Inspector Jarvis reporting upon his patrol as far as he has gone, have been received at police headquarters.

At the time of writing Inspector Jarvis was at Fort Chipewyan, having returned there from Fort Resolution, Fort Smith and Smith's Landing on the 25th February. During his trip he fined one man $300 and costs at Little Red River for furnishing intoxicants to Indians. Two men were fined $25 and costs each at Fort Smith for putting out poison, one conviction for a similar offence was obtained at Smith's Landing, also one at Chipewyan. A half-breed boy, 15 years of age, was also convicted at Chipewyan of having shot and killed a horse, the property of the Hudson's Bay Co. Owing to the youth's age he was allowed to go on suspended sentence. Several other cases in addition to the above were also heard, but no convictions were secured owing to the want of direct evidence.

Two buffalo bulls and a cow were seen 25 miles out from Fort Smith on the 21st February. This makes about 100 of these animals seen in that vicinity since last fall.

The party intended leaving for Fort Vermilion and Lesser Slave lake on the 4th March. Inspector Jarvis expects to come out some time in April.
